THAW MAKES UNEXPECTED MOVE

Sherbrooke, Que., Aug. 26.—Harry K. Thaw's Canadian attorneys late Tuesday withdrew the writ of habeas corpus obtained last week in his behalf and the fugitive from Matteawan will not be arraigned in the superior court tomorrow morning as had been expected. The withdrawal of the writ may prolong the proceedings indefinitely.

Rumors had been bandied about all day that the writ might be withdrawn but it was not until this evening that the notice was filed with the clerk of the court.

The next move in the Thaw case is now distinctly up to those desiring his deportation. Under the present commitment he might remain in the Sherbrooke jail indefinitely, electing to have a hearing before a district magistrate, or demanding a jury trial before the king's bench, criminal side, which does not sit until October. Briefly Thaw's lawyers have decided to let him pace his cell, meanwhile perfecting plans to defeat attempts to put him across the Canadian border.

"It is beyond me," said William Travers Jerome. "The fine points of Canadian law involved are such that I would not feel justified in even guessing at the outcome. We hope to get him in the end, but this tangle must be straightened out first."

District Attorney Conger of Dutchess county, New York, was equally puzzled and reticent. "If Mr. Jerome cannot solve the muddle, certainly I can't," he said.

Further to complicate matters, counsel representing the state of New York are not sure that the commitment under which Thaw has chosen to remain in jail, contains a charge of violating any of the dominion's laws. It is that of being a "fugitive from the Matteawan penitentiary" . . . where he was confined in a criminal charge for life."

Hector Verrett, K. C., representing New York state, said tonight that he regarded the withdrawal of the writ on Thaw's behalf as tacit admission by his lawyers that the commitment was legal and did contain a charge on which Thaw could be brought into court.

"Then we might get out another commitment charging some other offense," he added. "We could bring him into court on that surely. There would still remain, however, Thaw's right to choose trial either at once or before the king's bench in October."

DEATH SENTENCE FOR ATLANTA MURDERER

Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 26.—A sentence of death today was pronounced upon Leo M. Frank, convicted yesterday of murdering Mary Phagan. His execution was set for Oct. 10.

Shortly before sentence was pronounced attorneys for Frank moved for a new trial on the ground that several popular demonstrations, said to have been heard by the juryman, had prejudiced the case. Sept. 4 was set for argument on this motion.

Frank's demeanor while he listened to the reading of his sentence was as composed as it had been during his long trial. Only when Judge Roan reached the concluding words did the young factory superintendent show evidence of nervousness, and his step faltered when he was taken from the court room to be placed in his cell.

In accordance with Georgia statutes Frank's execution will take place at the county jail here. Only county officials, relatives of the prisoner and newspaper men are permitted to witness executions in this state.

Rae Frank, mother of the convicted, both of whom had sat with him in the court room throughout the trial, was present when sentence was pronounced.

Newt Lee, negro night watchman at the National Pencil factory, who was arrested on suspicion on April 27, was released today.

James Conley, negro sweeper at the factory, who told the Frank jury he helped dispose of Mary Phagan's body, is still under arrest on the original charge of suspicion.

BABY WEIGHED 21 POUNDS AT BIRTH

Oklahoma City, Aug. 27.—Oklahoma again breaks the world's record. This time a baby performs the trick and medical circles have been forced to admit the feat.

There arrived at the State Health Department Monday the official record of the birth of a son to George Chaffin and wife residing near Sulphur. This certified record declares that the child at birth weighed twenty-one pounds.

For fear disbelievers would attack the report the attending physician, Dr. A. H. Sullivan supplemented the regular form of birth report with a personal letter to State Health Commissioner Mahr. Dr. Sullivan declared the child to be the biggest baby in the world.

The state's record of the birth shows that the father is a farmer, forty-four years of age, a native of Missouri. The mother is a native of Arkansas, is thirty-three years of age, the mother of three other children, all living.

Baby Chaffin holds the weight record of the world as far as can be ascertained by the State Department of Health.

Sneezing Folk in Conference.

Bethlehem, Pa., Aug. 27.—Armed with atomizers, eye washes and eye cups, throat gargles and handkerchiefs limited in numbers only by the purses of the purchasers, several hundred red nosed, red eyed, sneezing and sniffling men and women gathered in this little mountain town today for the opening of the fortieth annual convention of the United States Hay Fever Association. The association was organized to relieve hay fever sufferers wherever found, and the members are not a bit discouraged over the fact that no panacea has been discovered in the forty years of its existence. A number of interesting reports and addresses have been prepared for presentation to the present convention. Of chief importance will be an article by Prof. P. A. Malignen, of Philadelphia, who attacks hay fever from the germ standpoint and who claims to have discovered that germs of identical character are found in cases of rose cold, hay fever and asthma.

The tax rate for state purposes in Oklahoma is 3 1-2 mills and in Texas it is 4 1-2 mills. Even with the highest rate since statehood Oklahoma is still quite a little below her big and wealthy neighbor.

In checking up the books of East St. Louis accountants found that somebody had made off with the snug little sum of $300,000 during the past two years. It seems that there are a few grafters outside of Oklahoma.

It is within the range of possibilities that the hope of pie will bring the Bull Moosers and Republicans of Oklahoma together again next year. With the Bull Moosers it is a question of sticking to Teddy and accept the certainty of no pie, or of going back to the Republican fold and perchance pick up a few crumbs. It remains to be seen which of the two incentives is the stronger.

Stork and Cupid Cunning Plotters

Many a New Home will Have a Little Sunbeam to Brighten It.

There is usually a certain degree of dread in every woman's mind as to the probable pain, distress and danger of childbirth. But, thanks to a most remarkable remedy known as Mother's Friend, all fear is banished and the period is one of unbounded joy and anticipation.

Mother's Friend is used externally. It is a most penetrating application, makes the muscles of the stomach and abdomen pliant so they expand easily and naturally without pain, without distress and with none of that peculiar nausea, nervousness and other symptoms that tend to weaken the prospective mother. Thus Cupid and the stork are held up to veneration; they are rated as cunning plotters to herald the coming of a little sunbeam to gladden the hearts and brighten the homes of a host of happy families.

There are thousands of women who have used Mother's Friend, and thus know from experience that it is one of our greatest contributions to healthy, happy motherhood. It is sold by all druggists at $1.00 per bottle, and is especially recommended as a preventive of caking breasts and all other such distresses.

Write to Bradford Regulator Co., 131 Lamar Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., for their very valuable book to expectant mothers. Get a bottle of Mother's Friend to-day.

ed and shade trees planted along the parkways. This addition lies on the crest of as dry a ridge as can be found in this vicinity, but the residents have deep wells that furnish a seemingly unlimited supply of water for irrigation of trees, lawns and gardens.

Last fall Mr. Hare secured the privilege of cultivating about thirty acres of this addition lying approximate to his home place. The ground is fairly good soil, but is of the character commonly referred to as "tight." It packs hard. It dries out quickly. Being on the crest of a high ridge it suffers from the hot winds. It was foul with weeds.

The fall plowing was done with a light team and was too shallow. In fact, it seemed that about everything was against this piece of ground. Anyone would have predicted that only the most favorable season could produce any sort of a crop.

Mr. Hare decided he would make a test on peanuts. The location and character of the soil was as severe a test as could have been found for any drouth-resisting crop.

The crop was carefully cultivated. Not a weed was allowed to grow. The surface was kept continually pulverized to prevent the surface cracking and the moisture escaping. In spite of the hard, dry soil and the shallow plowing the vines grew and flourished while the nuts developed on the roots. The field today is as green as an alfalfa patch in early June. The roots are a mass of developing nuts. The plants are still blooming and developing shoots for more nuts.

Apparently the ground is as dry as old bones, but underneath the "dust mulch" there is moisture. If the ground had been plowed deeply in the fall conditions would be still better. The field is a refreshing sight to see, adjoined as it is by burned-up fields of kafir, withered alfalfa and parched pasture.

Mr. Hare suggests a good thing for next year, a simple thing that will make the undeveloped addition about the edges of the city look beautiful and will make them actually profitable, as well as furnishing proper employment for boys and even some men who are often idle during the summer months. That is to make an organized effort to have every such addition and all vacant lots throughout the city planted to peanuts. The combined acreage would yield a considerable crop that would improve the lots by the cultivation. And by no means a small item, it would transform ugly spaces into beauty spots during the whole summer season.

Co-operation of city authorities, civic organizations and owners of additions and vacant lots will accomplish this work. The idea is worthy of serious consideration.—Paul B. Smith, Secretary Home Products and Manufacturers Association Oklahoma State Manufacturers Association.

SEVERE PUNISHMENT

Of Mrs. Chappell, of Five Years' Standing, Relieved by Cardui.

Mt. Airy, N. C.—Mrs. Sarah M. Chappell of this town, says: "I suffered for five years with womanly troubles, also stomach troubles, and my punishment was more than any one could tell. I tried most every kind of medicine, but none did me any good."

I read one day about Cardui, the woman's tonic, and I decided to try it. I had not taken but about six bottles until I was almost cured. It did me more good than all the other medicines I had tried, put together.

My friends began asking me why I looked so well, and I told them about Cardui. Several are now taking it."

Do you, lady reader, suffer from any of the ailments due to womanly trouble, such as headache, backache, sideache, sleeplessness, and that everlastingly tired feeling?

If so, let us urge you to give Cardui a trial. We feel confident it will help you, just as it has a million other women in the past half century.

Begin taking Cardui to-day. You won't regret it. All druggists.

sorry to see them go home before the other contests for we were expecting a nice time, and expected to win. Nevertheless we had a real pleasant time. Every one brought supper, we spread it on the ground and had a real pleasant time. Frisco people can be sociable when they try.

We also had a nice time after supper. Our school spelled against the outsiders, the outsiders of our district and several students of Union Valley school composed the spellers against us. They won by about four. We won in the ciphering contest against the same contestants. We were glad to have the Union Valley people with us and invite them to come again.

Full of interest and plenty of excitement drawn from real life.

An Adaption From the Drama
By Frederick Schiller
IN THREE PARTS

The plots and counterplots; the attempted assassination of Elizabeth; the killing of Rizzio, Mary's favorite; the disastrous meeting of the two queens; loyal Mortimer's futile efforts in Mary's behalf, all lead with increasing intensity to the great execution scene, gripping in the spell of its intrigue, its pathos, and its tragedy.

It is a masterly theme handled in masterly fashion. Photographically it is a work of art.

SUFFRAGETTE TRUCE IS

RUMORED IN ENGLAND

London, Aug. 27.—Current rumors of a truce between the militant suffragettes and the British government seem to find support in a letter written today by Mrs. Pankhurst to her followers advising them to take a holiday for the present. She says:

"I am gathering up strength for a renewed battle when the holiday session is over. I hope that every one of you also will take advantage of the present lull in political activity to take the rest and change you all so richly deserve."

Another indication that an agreement has been reached is the cessation by the authorities of the enforcement of the "cat and mouse" act. Out of forty-three suffragettes sentenced to imprisonment for various offenses, only one now is in jail.

It is widely believed Mrs. Pankhurst has at least agreed to a truce in order to strengthen the hands of those members of the British cabinet who are working to make the enfranchisement of women a government measure.

A Germ Exterminator.

Miracles are taking place each day in Oklahoma, the land and home of the Red Man, owing to the fact that three new herbs have been discovered scientifically compounded, and used in a common sense way. Demonstrations are now being conducted in the larger cities of Oklahoma and in a short time will be handled in all important cities of the land. No product of nature has ever sprung into such tremendous popularity in so brief a time. Numerous inquiries are pouring in regarding this new wonder. They come from people who have despaired of all earthly help. It is performing modern day miracles for the sick. It is banishing disease conditions where every other known remedy has failed. Antagonistic to all disease conditions, it attacks weakened important diseased tissues throughout the body. It instills a flow of vital force which sweeps away stomach troubles, and ailments of the liver, kidneys, bowels and blood, no matter of how long standing. It will be found most effective and not harmful and soothing to the most delicate invalids. It destroys germs of consumption, hay fever, asthma, catarrh and sore throat. In one case of tubercular laryngitis it restored the voice after ten years of affliction. All inquiries will be gladly and promptly answered.

The WOMAN

A Novel by
Albert Payson Terhune

Founded on William C. de Mille's Play
of the same name

Copyright 1912, The Bobbs-Merrill Co., by special arrangement with the Dabbs Printing Co.

"Oh, Tom," grunted Jim Blake in tired disgust, "you're worse than a collie pup with fleas. Keep out of this."

"Miss Kelly," formally asked Tom,
"may I act as your counsel?"

"You bet you can!" was the girl's servile response.

"Since you insist on interfering,
Tom," said Robertson, "I consent to recognize you as counsel for Miss Kelly. You are a lawyer and you know we can do what your father has said
we can. We can legally send Miss Kelly to prison as an operator who has violated the law. She has admitted her guilt in the presence of witnesses."

"Lord! Why didn't I get here sooner!"

"I have, technically, a perfect case.
Now, as her counsel, do you want this matter settled privately, here and

"You'll Do That to a Phone Girl, Just Because She Tries to Be Decent?"

now? Or do you prefer a formal charge and a public trial?"

"You can't force the situation like this," cried Tom. "It's a conspiracy!"

"Is it?" retorted Mark coolly. "Very good. Since you choose to take that tone, we will simply call your bluff by arresting her. Nelligan, go and get a plain-clothes man. Tell the captain it's for Jim Blake. Bring the man back with you and have him within call."

"We're kind of up against it, aren't we, Tom?" whispered Wanda as Nelligan departed on his mission.

"Miss Kelly," said Robertson, eying
the girl sharply, "I have conducted many cases, but I confess this puzzles me. There is something in it I cannot understand. We offer you the alternative of prison—Mr. Blake has offered you money. And still you refuse us.
There's some strong personal motive that makes you oppose us. Is—?"

"Oh, I've got motive enough in opposing the machine, if it comes to that!" interrupted Wanda. "In the first place, my father was Frank E.
Kelly."

Mark's face stiffened with surprise.
Gregg and Van Dyke glanced at each other, half-widened. Jim Blake alone gave no sign of disturbance. Glancing amusedly at Wanda from between his slitted eyes, he drawled:

"Frank E. Kelly, hey? So you're trying to get back at me, young woman?"

"Put it that way if you like," returned Wanda fiercely. "But there is more than that. I'm against you and all the dirty machine in every way.
Why? Because I've got the bad luck to be one of the people. I'm—"

The telephone jangled into the rush of her talk. Jim Blake picked up the instrument.

"Hello," he queried, "that you,
Burns? Instructions, hey? I gave 'em. Keep Winthrop talking till he drops, then get Mullins recognized and let him talk all night if he can; or till I'm ready to break in. Delay—that's the idea—delay! Hold the floor and delay. What? Oh, in a little while now, I guess. Don't worry."

"Miss Kelly," said Mark, "you still refuse to answer my questions?"

"I refuse everything," exulted Wanda. "You and the machine are licked
to a standstill. And I helped to do it.
That's easy worth a good whole year
in jail."

"Your motives for working against us?" he insisted. "I mean, are you shielding anyone?"

"Of course I am. I'm shielding the Woman you're after."

"Do you know who she is?"

"No."

"Gregg," ordered Robertson, turning to the highly-entertained Kansan, "will you go and get Standish? Ask him to come here."

"All right," readily assented Gregg, making sadly for the outer door.

"Don't try to stick it out, girl," exhorted Blake. "You can't afford to get square with me at this price."

"Can't I? Wait and see."

"Do you know Standish, personally?" called Mark.

"No, I don't."

"You want him to win, then, just for political reasons?"

"That's it."

"If any other man than Standish
were fighting the organization, you would act as you are now?"

"Yes," said Wanda, thankful to feel her feet planted once more on solid ground, and breathing the more easily for the safer turn the questions were taking.

"And," continued Mark, "if any other woman were in danger you would still oppose us in this way?"

"Yes."

"Then," cried Mark in quick triumph,
"you do know who she is!"

"I—no—I didn't say so!" murmured
Wanda, wholly at a loss.

"You didn't mean to say so," corrected Mark; "but you admitted it."

"I didn't! I didn't!" confusedly reiterated Wanda.

The long strain was telling on her.
Her wits, usually so agile, now moved with palpable effort. The quick brain felt like hot lead. Yet she rallied her fagged-out forces, wearily repeating:

"I didn't!"

"Miss Kelly," urged Mark, "your name won't appear in this. No one need know it was you who put us on the track."

"I won't—tell!"

"Then," Mark exclaimed roughly,
"we can do nothing more. Van Dyke,
telephone down and see if—Oh, here
you are, Nelligan! Got that plainclothes man downstairs?"

Nelligan nodded. Meanwhile Tom was whispering frenziedly to Wanda.

"Tell me the name, dear. I won't tell the others. But it may show me a way to help you out. And we're in a horrible fix."

"I know that—but I won't tell!"
Tom whirled about on the others.

"Dad! Mark!" he said. "Before you go any further I want you to know I've asked Miss Kelly to be my wife."

"No, no!" cried Wanda, trying to throw her open hand across his mouth.
"Don't—"

"If she consents," rushed on Tom,
"I'll marry her at once! whether in prison or out. I love her. For my sake won't you—?"

"I'm very sorry, Tom," replied Mark,
"but she's not your wife, yet. And she has her release in her own hands.
She has only to speak—"

"Dad!" appealed the boy.

"Not on your worthless life," growled Blake. "That's the very thing
she's been working up to all the time.
I knew it and I've been waiting for this. Her price is my consent. And I won't pay it. That's what I meant when I said the price was too high."

"If you've any influence with her,
Tom," remarked his brother-in-law,
"you'll use it to make her tell."

"He hasn't any influence!" retorted Wanda before Tom could speak. "Except that his standing by me against you all proves to me I'm doing right.
And—do you think, Jim Blake, that I'd marry a son of yours? Not if he was John D. Rockefeller and E. H.
Sothern rolled into one. Not till I've squared my account with you."

"You won't marry a son of Jim Blake's?" echoed Tom. "Well, after tonight I'm not Jim Blake's son.
Here's where I cut loose and—"

"Go as far as you like," vouchsafed his father, outwardly unmoved. "But the girl tells us or else she goes to jail."

"I won't—tell!"

"Mark, ring for the officer—"

"There he is at the door," answered Robertson as the buzzer sounded. "Let him in, Nelligan."

"I won't—tell!"

Nelligan opened the door. Standish stood on the threshold. Tom, who had leaned forward pugnaciously, drew back.

"Come in, Mr. Standish," said Mark.
"I suppose Gregg explained the situation to you."

"That is why I am here," curtly answered Standish.

"You know, then," went on Mark,
"that she is ready to face imprisonment to shield you?"

"That is what Mr. Gregg told me.
I don't understand—"

"Neither do we. But we thought you might feel like saving her from punishment."

"How?"

"By voting with us on the Mullins
bill."

"No."

"You will accept her sacrifice,
then?"

"I—I have no alternative."

Then, before any of them knew of her presence, Grace was in the room and had caught her husband's arm as

"Father," said Grace, "You Won't Go on With This?"

he lifted the receiver from the hook.
"You shan't do it!" she was crying.
"You shan't not!"

CHAPTER XX.

The Last Card.

Wanda was first to see her, even before Mark felt the restraining clasp on his arm.

"Mrs. Robertson!" cried the telephone girl in terror; intuition telling her why Grace was there.

"Grace!" called Tom joyously.

"Help us! You'll make everything right. You always do."

"Father," said Grace in eager appeal, "you won't go on with this? It is abominable!"

"I'm sorry, daughter; but we've got to. I wish you'd clear out. It's no place—"

"But, father, can't you see? Miss Kelly is protecting some poor woman who has done wrong and who has repented. Must she be punished so?
Must the Woman's years of repentance all count for nothing?"

"That's no concern of ours," said Mark. "The Woman's possible repentance is between her and her God.
We—"

"Then leave her punishment to God.
It's not for you to say how she shall suffer. You are striking with the blindness of a man; without dreaming
where the blow will fall."

"It will fall where it is deserved.
I'm enough of a believer in divine justice to know that."

"It will fall on her husband more heavily than on her."

"It will do no harm to know the type of woman he's married."

"It isn't fair! It isn't fair! Mark, your injustice to this girl here is a thousandfold worse than your cruelty to the Woman. It is wicked to punish Wanda Kelly for her loyalty in trying to save a friend from disgrace. It's cowardly—unbelievable!"

"Steady, daughter! Steady!" admonished Blake, amazed at his usually well-poised child's vehemence.

"You're all worked up over this. It isn't like you to—"

"No," agreed Mark. "It isn't. That is what has been puzzling me."

He was eyeing Grace strangely. The lightning quick and accurate faculty of deduction that had won his first success at the bar was stirring strongly within him.

"Grace," he commanded, his voice still gentle, but with a ring of iron behind its suavity, "look at me!"

Slowly, as by hard physical effort, she raised her panic-widened eyes to meet his gaze.

"You know this Woman's name," he declared.

At the mastery that vibrated
through his voice and look, she faltered, through no conscious volition of her own:

"Yes."

"You know the name," pursued Mark, still gripping his wife's brain by the magnetism that was almost hypnotic power. "We still have time to use it. Tell it to me."

(To be Continued.)

After reading of so many people in our town who have been cured by Doan's Kidney Pills, the question nat-

successful in our neighboring towns?"

The generous statement of this Coal-doubt on this point.

S. R. Barnes, Coalgate, Okla., says:
"For a couple of years I was bothered by sharp pains across my kidneys and too frequent passages of the kidney secretions. I had to get up several times at night. I took medicine but nothing benefited me until I got

GRAY HAIR TURNS ITS NATURAL COLOR AFTER APPLYING SAGE TEA

Mixed With Sulphur It Makes Hair
Soft, Beautiful; Cures
Dandruff

Almost every one knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded,
streaked or gray; also cures dandruff,
itching scalp and stops falling hair.
Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home,
which is messy and troublesome.

Nowadays skilled chemists do this better than ourselves. By asking at the drug store for the ready-to-use product—called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy"—you will get a large bottle for about 50 cents.
Some druggists make their own but it is usually too sticky, so insist upon getting "Wyeth's" which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair and is the best remedy for dandruff, dry, feverish, itchy scalp and to stop falling hair.

Folks like "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur" because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly, says a well-known downtown druggist. You dampen a sponge or soft brush and draw it through your hair,
taking one small strand at a time.
This requires but a few moments,
by morning the gray hair disappears
and after another application or two is restored to its natural color and looks even more beautiful and glossy
than ever. Gwin & Mays Drug Co.,
